ORIGIN OF THE SECT.

The sect has been in existence about fifteen years, but Schweinfurth has not been revealed unto them as their Lord and Master until within the last half dozen years.

Schweinfurth possesses in his own name property which has been given him outright to the amount of $500,000 at the lowest calculation. Wherever a member of the "Church Triumphant" is memoer of the "Church Triumphinit" is found they set aside a tenth of all their earnings as tithes for the Lord, and the Lord deposits it in different banks in his own-name.

OWE name.

When the Heraid reporter called at the Community he was met by a young male servant and ushered into the front parlor. This room was commodious and elegantly furnished. The feet sank into a velvet carpet, leopard and wolf skins were spread about, and added to the beauty and richness of the surroundings. The house is furnished in antique oak, and light comes through large plate glass windows, surrounded by many hued colored glass. From the snowy ceiling hung large and glittering chandeliers. The reporter was introduced to two richly dressed and quite pretty young fadies, who gave every evidence of refinement and culture. They answered a few immaterial questions politely, but appeared to be reserved, and were evidently reheved when an inner door opened and the "Saviour" Schwinfurth appeared. A very bright eye and bright red English cut whiskers were the lirst things one noticed and mentally commented on. His natty feet were encased in patent leather shoes; a heavy gold fob chain hung from a watch pocket; a very high clerical collar and a brilliant blue and gold tie surrounded his neck. He was dressed throughout in good taste, and there was an air of gentleman.

He answered calmly, quietly, respectfully, without the shadow of any anger. To all outward appearances his life is Inot only blameless, but he is marvellous in his power of restraint and the deliberate and collected way in which he asserts his Godhood and replies to aspersions. He has the Scriptures at his longue's end and quotes text after text with most surprising fluency to sustain his position. There is no question but that he has a most unaccountable influence over the minds of those with whom he comes in contact. He numbers among his followers people of learning and culture. His "kingdom," as he calls it, is growing beyond all conception of those who have not examined into it.

A FEMALE DETECTIVE CONVESTED.

A FEMALE DETECTIVE CONVERTED. Dr. Wilkin has determined to bring suit for $25,000 against Schweinfurth for injuring his domestic peace. In order to have, if possible, a stronger hold upon him, the Chicago physician secretly sent out a female detective about two weeks ago, a bright, attractive young woman named Mrs. E. C. Claffin. She went to the Community and made are. woman named Mrs. E. C. Claffin. She went to the Community and made pretence that she desired to join and become a convert to the faith. Her object was especially to discover Schweinfurth's relations with the band of women surrounding him. Possessed of fair features and an alluring form, she threw out hints and suggestions which the average man could not fail to understand. She reports that she found him cold as ice, and adamant to all her devices.

After she had been there a week and a averted auspicion, as she supposed, as to it any sinister motive, she placed her head upon his breast and told him of her happiness in having found the Saviour. She conlessed that she also loved him with the affection that is of the earth, and finally threw her arm about his neck and stroked his beard. To her most ardent advances he made no response, and she stated afterward that there was not the slightest flutter of responsive passion.

The strangest part of the story is that, sceptic though she was, she has now become a genuine convert, perfectly imbued with a belief in his supernatural attributes and and so testined at a meeting of the faithful in Chicago. A strong minded woman though she is, she could not account for his purity of attitude and gentleness on any other theory than that which he himself promulgates.

theory than that which he himself promulgates.
She said: "I am fully convinced that Schweinfurth is Jesus Christ come again to this earth. He is God. By him the only true way of salvation is revealed. I came there a sceptic. I now believe in him. He is truly without guile, and I thank Heaven I was sent out where I could meet him and learn of him. We can be purged of all our sin believing in him."

The reporter was introduced to two richity dressed and quite pretty young ladies, who gave every evidence of refinement and culture. They answered a few immaterial questions politely, but appeared to be reserved, and were evidently relieved when an inner door opened and the "Saviour" Schweinfurth appeared. A very bright eye and bright red English cut whiskers were the first things one noticed and mentally commented on. His natty feet were encased in patent leather shoes; a heavy gold fob chain hung from a watch pocket; a very high clerical collar and a brilliant blue and gold ties surrounded his neck. He was dressed throughout in good taste, and there was an air of gentleman ly ease and elegance from the crown of his head to his shiny footgear.

He led the way into the hall and thence to the two story wing and up stairs into a room which bore the appearance of a literary man's comfortable retreat. It was lined with books in solid walnut cases, tastefully veneered with French varnish and elaborately carved. Motioning the visitor to a Sleepy Hollow chair, he followed suit and awaited the interrogatories.
